THURSDAY EVENING, JULY 27.

A NEW CATTLE DISEASE. -The disease to which cattle are liable unfortunately as a rule buffle the skill of veterinary science, and for this reason alone some anxiety will no doubt be caused by a singular disease called "charbon," which, it is stated, has made its appearance among the cows in the parish of Glantane, county of Cork. The Pall Mail Gazette says death seems to follow seizure with striking rapidity, one of seven cows attacked on the same day having died in four hours. With the SOLICITOR IN BANKRUPTCY,
No. 1015 Main street, Richmond, Virginia.

Special facilities for prompt collections throughout Virginia and West Virginia.

Richmond. a diseased cow, the stomach of the animal was divided into small pieces, which, with great kindness and liberality, were distributed among some ducks and grese. The result was not satisfactory. The ducks and geese veraciously devoured the feast thus placed before them. and in less than five minutes began to totter about and then tell down dead. An attempt was made by the veterioary surgeon to bleed the infected animals, but no blood would flow The blood resembled ter in its color and consistency. It is some comfort to hear that the carcases of the animals, by direction of the police, have been buried very deep. The deeper the better, and even cremation might with ad vantage have been brought into operation as regards these cows.
